WAYNE STATE UNIVERSITY- SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK
FIELD PLACEMENT SITE DESCRIPTIONS

The Office of Field Education staff, students, and agency personnel collaborate in the field placement matching process. Students are referred by the Placement Assistants to interview with a Field Instructor. At which time, both field instructor/agency personnel and the student can evaluate the fit of the field placement for both.

Do not contact these agencies on your own!

Availability of student field placements depend upon multiple factors, including the availability of a Wayne State University approved Field Instructor, the number of students already in placement, and workspace issues. This list is for your internal information use only as it does describe numerous agency settings; however, it is not inclusive of all agencies used. Please remember that available options can and do change regularly. All placements must be arranged by the Office of Field Education. Students must not initiate contact with any agency to seek a placement without prior approval from the Office of Field Education. Any placements initiated without the knowledge of the Office of Field Education will not be approved.

For agencies that have a web site, we are providing a link to access more information about the agency.
